Strathclyde Police Ford Escort (1980)

White with period correct 'Jam Sandwich' reflective decals

After the amalgamation of eight forces into one unit in 1975, Strathclyde Police was created, matching the border of the newly formed Strathclyde Regional Council. The Police Ford Escort Mk3 with its striking new 'Jam Sandwich' livery adopted after May 16th, 1975 played a vital part in the policing of the new council region.

The purists may lament the shift from rear-wheel drive to front-wheel drive but the Mk3 Escort's legacy endures as a symbol of law and order on the UK's roads.

While not directly featured in any particular show we are aware of, the Mk3 Escort's legacy echoes through British cop TV shows, the most famous of these produced in Scotland being the Glasgow set detective show 'Taggart'. We were proud to be a part of the 40th anniversary of this show in 2023.
