Ford Sierra 4x4 2.8i Ghia Estate (1987)

White with Roof Rails & Factory Tow Bar

In the mid-1980s, Ford unveiled the Sierra 2.8i Ghia 4x4 Estate, a vehicle that defied expectations. Initially met with reticence, it emerged as a remarkable blend of familiar elements, creating an unusually competent and versatile car. A rare car, even back in the 80's, we believe this car to be one of only 2 remaining.

This car was no ordinary workhorse. It carried the prestigious Ghia trim, synonymous with competent refinement and luxurious extras like central locking, electric windows, and a sunroof. Its purpose was clear: to cater to the green wellie and Barbour market, where rugged elegance met practicality.

The Sierra Ghia 4x4 Estate exceeded expectations. Its 34/66 torque split 4WD system provided confidence, especially on slippery surfaces. A 2.8i Essex V6 engine (allegedly producing 150 bhp) coupled with Electronic ABS added to its allure. The five-speed gearbox, though not Ford's best, performed adequately.

This car is in excellent condition inside and out and is perfect for TV and Movie Period Productions, Corporate Events, Catalogue or Advert Photo-shoots.
