Morris Minor 1000 Convertible (1967)

White with Red Convertible Roof

In September 1948, the Morris Minor made its grand entrance at the Earls Court Motor Show in London. Designed by the visionary Alec Issigonis, this economy car would go on to captivate hearts for decades.

The Minor's original design was 4" narrower but late in development was widened leaving the distinctive centre line down the bonnet. Even after the introduction of the more popular Morris Mini in 1959, the Minor soldiered on, remaining in production until 1971.

Our classic Morris Minor was one of the first of the convertibles released in 1967, it is an original convertible unlike many converted from ordinary saloon's on the roads today. In 1967. This open-top option was quickly embraced by the motoring public, capturing the essence of carefree motoring.

This car has recently undergone an exterior restoration and full engine rebuild. It is in great condition inside and out. A charming little car excellent for Weddings, TV and Movie Production, Corporate Events, Catalogue or Advert Photo-shoots.
